Organisers:

HAVE YOU GOT A PRACTICAL SOLUTION TO CLIMATE CHANGE that could benefit municipalities?

We are searching for pragmatic business concepts, practices and technologies for slowing the effects of climate change!

Does your organisation have a solution that would

- combat climate change,
- support local and regional economics, employment and general well-being,
- lead to concrete changes in the practices of the municipalities and their residents, and
- can be broadly implemented as a successful measure?

We invite you to take part in this competition whose winners will be awarded in connection with the 'Solutions local, together – Nordic Conference on Sustainable Development in the Baltic Sea Region' scheduled to be held in Turku from 31 January to 2 February 2011.

The competition is targeted broadly to different organisations, companies and municipalities, which have developed practical and functional solutions aimed at slowing the effects of climate change. The objective is to bring together solution providers and new customers within the Baltic Sea region and Nordic countries.

The competition winners will gain publicity, new customer contacts, and concrete expert assistance in the marketing of their own solutions.

Competition entries should be submitted by 30 September 2010 by completing the form available online at www.solutions2011.fi/contest in Finnish, Swedish or English. The website also contains detailed competition guidelines, rules and criteria.

Take part and let others know about your solution for combating climate change!
